MACHINES WILL BUZZ BY NOV. 1

Rushville Furniture Factory Will be Running by That Time, According to Stockholders.

BUILDING WILL BE FIREPROOF

Remarkable Progress is Made in Two Months—60,000 Square Feet Floor Space.

Most people may get a real industrial thrill by rambling up around the vicinity of the northeast corner of the Stewart & Tompkins addition to Belmont which was recently established after a successful lot sale was conducted by several local men who organized a company and are erecting a furniture factory building that bids fair to outclass any building which has ever been built in this section of the State.

From a distance the monster building looms up on the horizon and it seems to spell industrial improvement for Rushville. The structure is rising in the middle of a field of wheat shocks and to the man with the love for nature and the good life it seems to sort of be pushing the farmer out of existence. The industrial life seems to be encroaching on the farmer's territory but the tiller of the soil must give away to such a structure that is being erected on the site of so much quiet and peace for all of these centuries.

The buzz of the machinery will be heard in the new furniture factory by the middle of October or the first of November. It will be just two months tomorrow since the work was started. One of the stockholders of the concern said this morning that they expected to be running by that time at the least and perhaps sooner.
They hope to have the building completed by the first of September or thereabout and the remainder of the time will be taken up with installing the machinery and preparing the interior for work. The sidewalks to the first floor are up and work being done on the second floor now.

It seems that the city council is to suffer a sad disappointment if that body is expecting and looking forward to furnishing electricity from the city plant for power at the new factory as well as for lights. It was stated at the factory this morning that a power plant would be erected, either outside the main building or in one corner of it, which will generate all of the electricity for power and lighting purposes. One of the stockholders said that the company attempted to reach an agreement with the city council but they found it possible, due to the fact that the city desired that the company to pay two cents a kilowatt for all electricity while the company wanted a cheaper rate on that used for lighting purposes. The company is making every arrangement to build the power plant and fully expects to get electricity in that manner.

The building which will house the Rushville Furniture Company will be as near fireproof as possible and will be much more immune from a blaze than any other structure in Rushville.
There will not be scarcely anything about the whole building which will be flammable with the exception of a part of the floors and even they will hardly be inflammable, as was said by a stockholder this morning.
"It would be possible to get the Cincinnati fire department here before the floors burnt up."

The whole building will be of cement which is causing an awful consumption of cement there just now.
They are using approximately one

"GRAFTERS" ON TONIGHT

J. Ross Vaudeville Company Will Give Its Feature Sketch.

The J. Ross Vaudeville company, which is the main attraction at the Catholic carnival will put on a one-act sketch entitled "Grafters" this evening. Aside from that they will give another act. This is said to be the feature bill of the company and large audiences are expected at each show. A crowd that was larger than the one at the opening night, attended the carnival last night and enjoyed the free open air concerts by the city band. The carnival will continue for three more nights.

AUTO DASHED INTO TREE IN MILROY

Mrs. Michael Conner of Near Richland Lost Control of Machine, Causing Accident.

DRIVER IS SEVERELY BRUISED

While driving an automobile in Milroy yesterday, Mrs. Michael Conner of near Richland lost control of the machine and it dashed into a tree at the side of the road. Mrs. Conner was badly bruised and the machine damaged considerably, the top being crushed and the radiator twisted and dented. The total damage amounted to about $300. The automobile was a new one and Mrs. Conner was not accustomed to its use which probably accounts for the accident. The machine was going at a good rate of speed and had reached a point in the road east of the Big Four tracks when she lost control.
Mrs. Conner was thrown to the ground and severely shaken up, but it is said her injuries are not serious.

FIRST CALL MADE FOR AUTOMOBILES

"Flying Squadron" Will Sail on the Initial Trip Advertising Chautaqua Monday Night.

ITINERARY IS FINE "JOY" RIDE

The first call for automobiles to make up the "Flying Squadron" has been made and the first trip will be made Monday evening. The same method, which has proved so helpful in the past, will be used this year to advertise the chautauqua in this and adjoining counties. The committee in charge of advertising must depend entirely on the generosity of Rushville and Rush county people who own automobiles as the use of machines for that purpose has always been donated. It is pointed out that people who "joy" ride much in the evening anyway might as well help a good cause by joining the crowd and going on the trip to boost the institution which is bringing much good to Rushville. Already the use of a few machines has been promised but more are needed. The tour Monday night will be by way of Glenwood, Falmouth, Raleigh and Mays.

COLISEUM IS ASSUMING SHAPE

New Structure is Rising in Ruins of Its Predecessor, the Tabernacle.

ITS VALUE TO RUSHVILLE

First Time in Many Years Place Will be Had For Public Gatherings.

Not many days will elapse before the rehabilitated coliseum will rise in the dead ashes of its predecessor, the tabernacle, in the city park. A large force of men is at work on the structure and it will soon be completed. A cement foundation is being constructed so that the building will be perfectly stable and substantial.
The girdles were put in today and it will not be long before the sidewalls will be erected.

According to the present plans, which will be carried out, the coliseum will be even larger than the tabernacle was. It will be seventy feet wide and one hundred and twenty feet long. That is ten feet wider than the tabernacle was and, of course, it will accommodate many more people. It was estimated that the tabernacle would seat two thousand people. If that be the case, it is expected that from twenty-three to twenty-five hundred people will be able to find seats in the new coliseum.

The long way of the coliseum will be north and south and the stage will be erected in the west side of the building. It will be greatly reduced in size so that room will be made for many more seats than were in the tabernacle. The building will be wired for electricity as has been the case at other chautauquas.

Much comment has been heard on the new coliseum since the council acted favorably at the Tuesday night meeting. Considerable satisfaction has been expressed over the action of the council which made it possible for the chautauqua association to have a place where there would be no danger of inclement weather stopping any of the programs. Most people who have expressed themselves on the subject are pleased with the arrangements which the council made. They feel that it is all right for the chautauqua association to donate the building to the city and that all rentals from it shall go to the association to be used for keeping the building in repair.

There is much significance attached to the erection of the coliseum. It means that Rushville will have a place for public gatherings for the first time in many years. In the last few years it has always been necessary to hold meetings of all sorts in halls where space was at a premium and where very little comfort was to be found. The coliseum will provide a place for any convention which may be held here, for political gatherings and conventions, for church meetings of any sort and it may be put to many other uses which will develop when the occasion arises.

HAVE A BROTHER.

Greensburg News: The triplet boys at the home of Walter Campbell and wife, of Milroy, have a brother, who arrived at their home the other night. There will now be four Campbells ready, in a very few years, to become members of the Campbell Brothers base ball club, or members of the Milroy High School team.

WEATHER.

Local showers tonight and Friday.

IS BECOMING AN EPIDEMIC

Third Petition For a New School Building is Sent to State Board.

FROM RICHLAND THIS TIME

Dr. Frank H. Green Finds Structure
Unfit For School Purposes—
Will be Condemned.

The desire for new school houses is spreading apparently as still another township comes forward and asks that its district school building be condemned and the necessary steps taken to have a new one constructed. This time the request comes from Richland township, school district number three, in which the town of Richland is located.

This time Dr. Frank H. Green, county health officer, was the official who inspected the building and no representative of the State Board of Health came to this city as has been the case in the other two recent instances when school buildings in the county were inspected. Dr. Green said today that the present building in the town of Richland is unfit for school purposes and he will recommend that the structure be condemned by the State Board of Health. It is very likely that the board will take that action.

The present building is a brick one and it may not be necessary to rebuild entirely. It is the opinion of the county health commissioner that the building may be remodeled so that it will comply with the sanitary school house law, which was enacted recently. Whether or not a new building will be built will lie purely with the trustee of the township, according to the county health official. Ten taxpayers of the district in which the school house is located petitioned for an inspection of the structure.

It will be remembered that the Noble township high school building in New Salem was condemned by the State Board of Health and plans were made to build a new one. The school building in Glenwood will be condemned by the assistant secretary of the Board, who was here Tuesday. He said that he would report that such action should be taken. It is rumored that the high school building at Orange which is located in Orange, Fayette county, just across the line, will be the next on the list. That will directly affect Rush county as pupils from this county attend there. It is understood that there has been much complaint there concerning the present building.

CONCERN OFFERS STOCK FOR SALE

Arbuckle & Company Places $25,000

Worth on the Market—Is Reliable Home Institution.

CUMULATIVE AND PREFERRED

Arbuckle & Company, owners of the foundry in West Second street, have placed on the market $25,000 in six per cent cumulative preferred stock. This move is made in order to increase the opportunities of the company, so that it may branch out and increase its business more rapidly. The company is in the hands of competent Rush county business men who are generally known over the county and whose reputation for good business methods are well known. It is a rare opportunity that is offered to Rush county men who are looking for a safe investment as the company is a home institution, and to invest money in it so that it may be able to enlarge, will not only be assisting the company but will materially aid Rushville in its industrial growth.

The $25,000 in stock is non-taxable and is issued by the authority of the law of Indiana. The interest is payable semi-annually and the stock may be redeemed at par three years from the date of issuance.
The stock is first lien on the entire assets of the company. It will be remembered that the capital stock of the company was increased from $50,000 to $75,000 last week. The concern manufactures clay working machines.

FINDS HOME MADE BRAND RELISHING

T. J. Geraghty Flashes One of Rushville's "Best" on Aviator Who's Peeved After Flight.

SMOKES IT WITH A RELISH

Rushville people who are interested in air—especially cool air—that is the things that fly in the air, such as airships, aeroplanes, birds and ships that pass in the night, may have read about that young aviator, Atwood, flying all over New York several days ago and circling the tower on the Singer building which is the highest in the United States. Atwood created the biggest sensation in many a year in New York. Blase New York was almost jerked off its seat.

But to the point. Tom J. Geraghty, who is now on the New York Herald staff, was sent out to "cover" the aviation meet that afternoon and it was part of his duty to describe the marvelous flight. He trailed Atwood's machine to Governor's Island, where it alighted like a wing-weary bird. Atwood jumped out and yelled for a cigarette. Tom Geraghty was "inside the lines" and he pulled one of Rushville's home-made cigars from his pocket, pointing out that it was nicely wrapped and packed ready for shipping, and offered it to the far famed bird-man. The word is he smoked it with a relish and never thought of a cigarette again.

WORK STARTED ON NEW WELL

Old Moffett Factory Lot Scene of Operations.

The water and light committee, composed of Councilman Parsons, Norris and Kelley decided today to try for a well on the old Moffett factory site, between Seventh and Eighth streets, and just east of the Big Four railroad. It is thought a good well can be obtained there. The well in the city park proved worthless as it only gave about 40 gallons per minute in the test yesterday.

GETS POSTAL BANK.

Shelbyville Republican: The Shelbyville postoffice will become a postal savings depository beginning Monday, August 14, according to information received by Postmaster Elisha Sexton today from the Postal Department at Washington, D. C.
The government is establishing these depositories all over the United States and they are taking well in most of the cities.

LOCAL HORSES ARE GOING SOME

Curt Gosnell Takes First Money With Allation and Second With Wood-cliffe King at Erie.

JONES IN SENSATIONAL RACE

Horrie Brooks Drives Dr. Czar to Victory at Edinburg—Many Entries From Here.

Local horsemen did well yesterday at the various race meets in which they started. Curt Gosnell at Erie, Pa., took a first and second money.
Allation had little trouble in taking the 2:22 trot in straight heats. The best time was 2:18 $\frac{3}{4}$ . This makes the third race this season that Gosnell has won with Allation. In the 2:17 pace, Gosnell drove Woodcliffe King, taking second money.

At Terre Haute, Harrie Jones, driving Mary Boo in the 2:15 pace took fourth place. He was fifth the first two heats, sixth the third and fourth the last two, placing him fourth in the summaries. In this race Ulah B., lost her driver in the first eighth of the mile, when he was thrown from the sulky in a collision, but she paced a great race twice around the half mile track hugging the pole and finishing seventh. She broke once, but quickly regained her stride. At the end of the mile she slowed down with the remainder of the field of 11 horses. In the next heat her driver and owner, Wherry, of Wapella, Ill., who was not hurt in his fall, drove her to second place in a mile in 2:09 $\frac{3}{4}$ , which made a record for the association's new half mile track, and then won the next three heats and the race.

Horrie Brooks, driving Dr. Czar in the 2:30 pace yesterday at Edinburg, carried off first money in a spectacular race. The race was the best of the afternoon and required five heats to decide. Igow J., driven by Frank Tinkler of Shelbyville pushed Dr. Czar all the way winning the second and third heats. Dr.
Czar succeeded in nosing out the fourth and fifth heats, but was forced to step fast every foot of the way. The best time was 2:16 $\frac{1}{4}$ .
Frank Lindsay took third money in the 2:30 trot with James W.

Rushville horses will be quite in evidence at the Edinburg races today. Brooks will start John D. in the 2:15 pace and the 2:20 pace. John Veach has entered Lady Veach in the 2:15 pace, while Frank Lindsay will start with Lady J. Joe Christman will enter the same race with J. C.
Patchen.

REMOVED DEAD DOG.

Chief of Police McAllister was called to the C. H. & D. freight depot this morning and ordered Watt Bartlett, the "city undertaker" to remove a dead dog that he had placed in a car, expecting the railroad company to get rid of it instead of him.
"Doc" should have marked the freight "perishable" or placed it in a refrigerator car.

ARC LIGHTS REMOVED.

The arc lights at the four corners of the court house square were removed today and the posts cut down.
It is authoritatively stated that the arcs will not be placed in some of the "dark spots" over the city as the arcs pull too heavily on the light plant.

The Women's Industrial Council of England has opened a school for teaching motherhood in London. The school will teach the theory and practice of managing children of tender years.

Nation Absorbed In Dollar Pursuit Says Kenyon.

Washington, July 20.—Senator Kenyon of Iowa in a speech in the senate attacked rich Americans, whom he charged with aping royalty and flaunting their immense wealth in the faces of the poor. So crazy were some wealthy citizens of the United States to imitate the aristocracy of Europe that they even donned knee breeches at the coronation of the king to be in the swim, said the senator. "We are living in an extravagant age," he said. "We are money mad. We are rushing through life at break-neck pace, piling up fortunes upon fortunes. Men of wealth are striking for more millions, never stopping to think that there is no pocket in a shroud. Is it any wonder that the people of this country are growing restless? "The problem of the control of great wealth is one of the most vital problems of the day."

Picturesque Threshing Customs are of the Past

The old-fashioned threshing dinner, the one that sons and daughters and forty-second cousins in the cities would travel many miles, to help eat and the one that caused many hours of worry and toil on the part of the housewives, has about disappeared. It is with a regret on the part of some people that the old fashioned feast is getting out of date and it is regrettable, especially with those who did not have to do the work, connected with the dinner or have to settle any of the bills.

But on the part of the farmers and particularly on the part of the housewife, the passing of the once-a-year-threshing-family-dinner, is hailed with delight. Threshing time now holds no terror for the wife and many of the burdens of the farmer have been lessened. Mrs. Farmer could not see the threshing machine pull on the farm without that feeling of oh-how-hard-I-will-have-to-work-to get dinner for them.

Several years ago several farmers put their heads together and decided to organize what they termed a "ring." The plan was to engage one man to do all the threshing in that ring, pay him an agreed price, furnish the few men connected with the machine, with one meal a day and to make all the rest of the helpers furnish their own dinner. Each farmer was to help all the rest and furnish his own meal.

One advantage to the farmers was the saving in getting one man to do the work on an agreed price and also there would always be the pleasure of knowing that enough "hands" would be ready to do the threshing. Another advantage, thought of by the farmers, was the saving of the women folks and hard work and expense of preparing a dinner or supper or perhaps two or three meals, for all the force do the threshing. Usually there are about twenty-five or thirty men required to do the threshing and under the old plans each farmer wife had to feed all of those men.

So the "ring" was organized and from the first it proved the most popular idea started on the farm in many years. Farmers got their wheat threshed much quicker and cheaper with better results. The farmers' wives had to prepare a dinner for the three or four machine men, who are with the threshing outfit. Thus the labor connected with harvest time was greatly reduced.

There are perhaps a dozen "rings" in Delaware county and each "ring" is composed of perhaps twelve or fifteen farmers. The men at the head of the ring agree with the owner of the threshing outfit on the date, threshing in the "ring" is to be started. Then the farmers in the ring help one of the men thresh his wheat. They all get together and help the next farmer in the ring with his wheat and so on until all the wheat in that ring is threshed.

A careful account of the number of bushels threshed by each man in the ring is kept and at the end a meeting is held and the farmer, who had 100 acres is required to pay some money to the fellow who had only twenty-five acres. So the whole idea is equalized.

The idea has been a great success in Rush county and the rings here now are either threshing or preparing to thresh.

The Fallacy of Dog Days Exploded by Institute

Another time honored superstition is to be thrown to the four winds. What would you say if some one told you there was no such days as "dog days?" You would probably laugh at that man, for most of us have been taught that there are certain days during the summer when the bite of dogs is extremely dangerous. People from the earliest times have been "leery" of dogs and their playful tactics during some days of the summer months and it was all on account of "dog days."

Now you can play all you please with the little poodle or hound, as your pet may happen to be, without the least particle of fear of being bitten and being made mad as a result.

Statistics compiled by the Cincinnati Pasteur Institute, one of the largest institutes of the kind in the world, show that more people are bitten by mad dogs in the winter months than in the summer months. The hot season, as such, is not a factor in dog-bite cases, as borne out by the occurrence of the 119 cases that have been treated at the Pasteur Institute in Cincinnati. There were 48 cases in January, February and March, 29 cases in April, May and June, only 11 cases in July, August and September and 31 cases in October, November and December.

The supposed menace of "dog days" is fallacious, and is not based on fact. The hot weather has little to do with the prevalence of rabies, other than that man and beast are more likely to be abroad during the warm months and thus more exposed to infection.

Of the 119 cases at the Pasteur Institute in the Cincinnati hospital, all recovered except one, and in this is unfortunate that in many communities indifferent and an unenlightened or perverted sentiment of compassion for animals should hinder the adoption of reasonable measures of precaution that have banished the disease from some countries. Australia shows perfect results from a law requiring all imported dogs to be quarantined for six months. No case of rabies has ever appeared on that island. Since the end of 1902 there have been no cases of rabies in Great Britain, on account of the precaution measures. But before these precautions were taken, from 1848 to 1898, a thousand persons died of the disease.

PLAN TO COMBAT DREAD DISEASE

State Board of Health is Making Special Preparations to Fight Infantile Paralysis.

BULLETINS RECEIVED HERE

They, together With Circular Letters Are to be Distributed Among Physicians of County.

Dr. Frank H. Green, the county health commissioner, has received from the state board of health through Dr. J. N. Hurty, the secretary, copies of the bulletin just issued on infantile paralysis and a number of circular letters issued by the board. They will be distributed among the physicians of the county. It is feared that infantile paralysis will become epidemic in the state, and the state board expects to make an exhaustive study of the disease as it has been commanded to do by the legislature. By paying strict attention to the matter the physicians of the county may greatly aid the state board and also confer a blessing on the people of the state of Indiana.

The State Board will also provide blanks upon which case reports are to be made and the epidemiologist of the board will personally investigate any epidemic that may occur.

The attention of Dr. Green has also been called by the State Board to the fact that the pure food and sanitary laws make all health officers deputy food inspectors of the State Board of Health. This provision is expected to build up in the State a corps of skilled men who are sworn to enforce the food laws and it will serve to enable the various cities and other communities to regulate their own markets.

The food and drug department keeps several inspectors constantly in the field but as each has more than twenty counties to visit it is obviously impossible for them to compel through compliance with the laws throughout their territory. A State inspector is at the service of the local health officers whenever they may wish to train an assistant, solve a special problem, or to take up inspection work personally. In cases of this kind the inspector is to be considered an assistant to the local officers and not personally responsible for the law enforcement in the jurisdiction of the local commissioners.

The food department of the State board of health wishes all of the local commissioners to become experts in the enforcement of food and sanitary laws and will supply them with instruction slips, blanks, inspection cards, and other supplies which they may have occasion to use. It urges the selection of some competent layman to carry out this work as the deputy of the local commissioners and will give him sufficient training to make him proficient in his duties the training to be given either at Indianapolis or in his home town or community.

Egg Candling Process is Described in Circular

H. E. Barnard, state food and drug commissioner, is sending to egg dealers over the state copies of circular letters issued by an expert on egg candling in which the dealers are instructed as to the best methods of candling eggs. It is said the eggs should be candled in a dark room, which may be made by stretching black cloths across an end or a corner of a room. In candling, it is shown, the candler should not look directly at the light used, except through an egg, as otherwise the glare will tire the eye and render the candling unsatisfactory. The following points are set out in the circular: Strictly fresh eggs, when held before the light, will present a uniformly clear, pink to yellow appearance, the light showing through the egg. Eggs that are entirely decomposed or rotten will present an absolutely black appearance, no light showing through the egg. This class of eggs may be known at a glance. It is the intermediate grades that require time study and experience to classify. These grades are as follows:

Eggs that are just beginning to decay will show a black spot of variable size according to the state of decomposition. They are known as "spots."

Shrunken eggs are old eggs that have been carried in a reasonably cool temperature so they have not decayed, but have merely become shrunken by evaporation or moisture. The shrunken part always will be detected in the large end of the egg. For this reason, eggs always are held before the light with the big end up. The age of the egg may be approximately told by the extent of the air space developed in the big end of the egg.

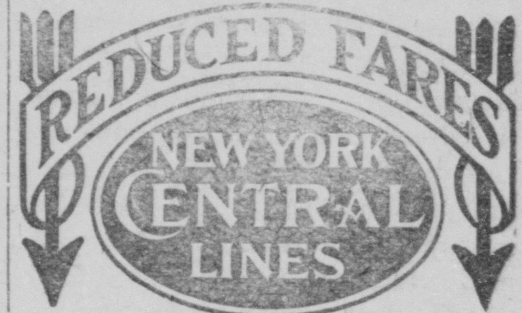

Strictly fresh eggs are full and show no air space. This air space will be found to vary from one-eighth to three-quarters of an inch, according to the age and temperature in which the egg has been held. Shrunken eggs mostly are found in the fall and winter when eggs are put on the market after being held for advancing prices.

Hot weather causes the whites of the eggs to become thin and watery. This watery condition develops in hot weather in contrast to the shrunken space in cool weather. The watery condition will be noticed by turning the egg quickly before the light always should be turned quickly back and forth to detect the watery condition and to get a more complete view than from looking only at one surface.

Eggs that have been left in the hot sun for a time will develop streaks of blood. These are partly hatched eggs and are known as sun hatched. Eggs that have been in an incubator and have not hatched also will show somewhat similar appearance.

Mr. Barnard has issued a circular embodying the state law against the sale of rotten or partly decayed fruits. This is being sent to farmers and fruit dealers in the state.

Honest Medicines Versus Fakes

President Taft's recent message suggesting an amendment to the Pure Food and Drug law in its relation to Prepared Medicines, does not refer to such standard medicines as Foley's Honey and Tar Compound and Foley Kidney Pills, both of which are true medicines carefully compounded of ingredients whose medicinal qualities are recognized by the medical profession itself as the best known remedial agents for the diseases they are intended to counteract. For over three decades Foley's Honey and Tar Compound has been a standard remedy for coughs, colds and affections of the throat, chest and lungs for children and for grown persons, and it retains to day its pre-eminence above all other preparations of its kind. Foley Kidney Pills are equally effective and meritorious. F. B. Johnson & Co.

When you part from a newly made acquaintance on the hotel piazza, promises of letters and future meetings, it does seem rather surprising that most of these tropical friendships drop out of sight suddenly.

A year ago we became quite intimate at a summer resort with a newspaper man from Canada. Our common interests drew us closely together. A few months after when we feebly tried to keep alive the coals of a friendship seemingly so promising, he sent back a post card, containing the single word "Well," with several exclamations points, which one might guess meant that he was still in the land of the living. Thus faded the glory of the summer friendship. No enduring bonds of love were ever built out of post cards.

Today friendship is largely a by-product or a stepping stone. Desiring to enter some particular Frozen Fifty or Four Hundred, we lay siege to the more accessible outposts of this social fortification. Or in a more normal manner we get on a basis of comradeship with the people with whom we work in office, church, society, or sport. But we rarely realize the intimacies of the old days, because we do not realize that friendship is a coy and reticent creature, whose inner heart is reached only by assiduous courtship.

The other day a thirteen-year-old girl of Akron, O., after visiting a moving picture show, went to Cuyahoga Falls, invaded the bank of the village and attempted to compel the cashier to turn over to her the funds in the vaults. She was utterly without guile and it was not difficult for him to persuade her that the vault was locked and he could not open it. Then she sought to compel him to empty his pockets. Again she was persuaded, this time that the pockets were empty. So the girl—a mere child in stature and years—pocketed the big thirty-eight caliber revolver she had flashed in the face of the cashier and left the bank.

Undoubtedly this episode will be taken, by those people who see no good in the moving picture shows, as evidence that it is an unnecessary evil and should be uprooted from the community. They will forget or disregard the fact that the same machine which depicts the wild west scenes which inflame the imaginations of the youths, taking the place in large measure of the ten cent novels, can easily and does depict scenes which are for the good, moral and intellectual, not only of the youth but of the adult. The fact that should not be lost sight of is that parents should not permit their children to go to shows likely to exert a baneful effect any more than they should permit them to read books of a demoralizing nature. There must be a discrimination shown by the parent and much can be done toward developing a proper taste by taking the children to good shows just as the parent can aid in developing a safe and sane literary taste by putting good books in the hands of the children.

The moving picture show is not any more of an evil by very necessity than is any other form of the drama and it should not be so regarded. If parents will teach their children to avoid the shows that are likely to have a bad effect the showmen will very shortly refuse to use such films. And the good that may be realized through the proper use of the moving picture show is so great that it should not be condemned out of hand.

DIVIDES LARGE ESTATE EQUALLY

Will of Mrs. Margaret Offutt, Former Local Woman, Who Died in Greenfield, is Probated.

GIVES CEMETERY TRUST FUND

Provides For Many Relatives and Few Friends, Many of Whom Live Here.

The will and codicil of the late Rhoda Margaret Offutt has been filed in the circuit court for probate, says the Greenfield Reporter. The will was executed April 10, 1909, and witnessed by John A. Rhue and Samuel J. Offutt, and the codicil was made August 31, 1910, and witnessed by Harvey Rhue and Otto Chandler.

The first three items provide that all of her debts and funeral expenses be paid and directs as to the arrangement of her grave. Also provides a $500 trust fund, the interest to be used by the trustee, to be appointed by the court, for the purpose of caring for the family burying lot in the Barrett cemetery. It is further provided that the person or persons caring for her during her last days be paid a just and reasonable amount for such service.

To her namesake, Maggie Edwards of Arlington, she left her piano. To her nephew, Charles M. Hill, she willed her farm of 100 acres, east of the city, subject to a lease, given to the Central Union Telephone Company to erect poles on the highway, and providing that the said Charles M. Hill pay for the farm at $125 an acre. Should he fail or refuse to accept the farm at that price, the will provides that it shall be sold by the executor and the proceeds distributed as provided in the succeeding items.

To her sister, Amanda Jane Hill, she left $1,000; to her nephew, Otto Hill, she left $1,000; to Guernsey Hill, a nephew, she left $1,000; to her niece, Mary Hendricks, she left $1,000; to Theophilus Power she left $100; to Maggie Edwards she left $200; to Lillian Price, a friend, she left $200. The will provides that any money yet remaining in the estate is to be divided among the above people in the same ratio as the bequests named. The household goods are also to be divided in the same manner.

The Maundering Mind of A Meandering Medical Man

Dr. J. C. Sexton, Who, Together With His Wife Is Spending the Summer in the West, Addresses a Clever Epistle to His Hundred and One Friends He Promised to Write

Albany, Oregon, July 13, 1911.

It is now "three weeks" since I left "my happy home." Three weeks of sight-seeing, going, looking, riding—just spending time and paying for it in the hardest, to me, hardest kind of work. I had no idea and can't even begin to tell of all or even part of it. People, scenery, climate, weather, money, mountains, trains, steamers, hotels, cafes rubber-neck wagons, parks, music, flowers, land, irrigation, education, politics, beans, oats, barley, flax, oranges, lemons, melons, dates, raisins, English walnuts, olives, apricots, cherries, sugar beets, big ranches, the desert, the canyons, the cities, the counties as big as all Indiana—from Mexico to Portland, the west coast of our country—California and Oregon—and these two States would support an easy half of our entire population. For bigness and space and distance, for beauty and grandeur, for fruit and flowers, for people and things and hustle and go, bohemian life and happiness, the great, grand, glorious west for mine.

"No," said the guide to the minister who wanted to fish in a certain stream. "I would not advise you to do it, for if you go home and tell about it they will call you a liar and the fish will be so fine and so plentiful you could not help but tell about it."

Now I have a notion not to tell a word about Los Angeles. But if you did happen to be entertained by a lot of prosperous doctors, had cards to every club and theater, be a guest of Judge Conrey and visit his family, and then have Jesse Vance and wife, Will Toll, Paul Green, Ed Mauzy, Fin Pugh, Will Kennedy and a host of their friends to show you around—say, were you ever entertained? Well, and then expect me to write you the truth. Don't come here unless you can go home to something better, for here it is the "good old summer time" all the time and they tell us we're "seeing things" at the very worst time. Auto party to Pasadena and the Sunken gardens of Adolphus Busch of Anheuser (Budweiser) Busch. Twenty-two acres at a million dollars an "ache," and how many cold bottles would that come to at fifteen cents a throw. I never was good at figures. On the way I stopped to call on Aunt Kate and Uncle Jim Lakin, old friends, and neighbors when I was smaller than you, honey, and I stopped at the Old Soldiers' Home and hunted up—who do you think? Nobody but Frank McCoy (Mame and Kate's father) and "take a look at me McCoy and see if you know me." "Yes, indeed I do, ye are Doe Sexton's son." And I was about William Sparks' size when he used to carry me on his back. But there I've kept you in that auto party while McCoy and I gossiped and my mind wanders back to the old days and "the times that was"—as Kipling says. Then you come home by the Country Club road and such roads I've never seen yet. Three millions a year for roads in California. Flowers everywhere, and the principal industry is Lima beans and doing the tourists. I saw one field of one hundred and forty acres, but they said there had been fields of three thousand acres. They say, they say, I didn't say, I saw all they say about. I am some sucker, but the way they talk and blow and of Greenfield she left her property on Spring street, for a parsonage. Charles M. Hill is named as executor.

The codicil revokes item nine in which the property is willed to the Presbyterian church, as she states that she executed a deed for same on the date of the codicil, subject to her life estate. The property devised to her sister, Amanda Hill, in the will, is willed to C. M. Hill, as trustee for same, Amanda Hill to have all the rents and profits during her life, when it shall go to her children.

The last item of the will provides that any person named as a beneficiary in the will, who takes any steps to change or contest the same, shall not be allowed to take any property belonging to the estate.

brag and spend their money! Then on to the Japanese Fishing Grounds, Ocean Beach, Venice, the Coney Island of the Pacific Coast; down to San Diego, Coronado Beach, Point Loma Light House and mission churches, Ramona's Cottage, then over into Mexico where there is still a war going on and our guide had to show his papers and swear that all we wanted was one, (Thank the Lord, only one) drink of Mescal (native whiskey) and some picture post cards.

Up to San Francisco along the coast line road, with ocean and valley and mountain and you just ride and look and ride and "look your money away." San Francisco, earthquakes, fire, beautiful new buildings—and Market street that's more like Broadway than any place else—where you can see every kind of people and hear every tongue on the globe. Wonderful how fast they have built again and how beautiful, and they live so well and one day at a time until five years seems long ago and the great quake and fire of 1906 is only a memory to them; yet you can see the effects of it, and another thing you can see is the signs for rent in the empty houses—by the hundreds and hundreds. I can house a hundred thousand more people in the ready to rent empty houses of "Frisco." But the harbor and bay, the drives and Golden Gate park, cliff house and the seal rocks; back by the forts and soldiers to Chinatown by night, and then down town to the cafes and bright streets and it's now about midnight and things are just getting well started—just going good and burning at both ends. They talk of nothing but their great exposition they are going to have in 1915—when they open the Panama canal—while all the time you are in the State it is just one grand agricultural and industrial exposition.

Then we strike the "trail of our lonesome" kids up Oregon way by the famed Shasta Spring and Mountain, and I think the springs a fake, but there is no doubt about the mountain and the waterfalls and the color and coolness and sweetness of it all. On again and out into the Modoc country, where Capt. Jack, almost the last of the big chiefs to put up a war, tried to hold back the onward march of civilization. The Oregon rivers and forests, the mountains and rich valleys, an empire waiting a world's service and as yet only touched. They are prodigal of the timber and cutting it up and cutting it out to cull and coin into dollars. Everything, Portland included, is built of wood. Just listen for the fire bell and some good day there will be no more Portland, for she's all pitch and fir and pine and balsam. But the roses and roses and roses, and all "the flowers that bloom in the spring, tra-la"—great hedges of scarlet geraniums, my soul, honey, color without end. They talk of their over two hundred thousand population, of the tide coming at the rate of ten and fifteen thousand a year, their public improvements and shipping, the stuff they send east and the money that comes back. They send lumber and fruit and wood pulp, sugar beets, flax, cherries, Oh, Lordy, everything we eat or wear or do or think or have—hot air without end and then some and it all comes from Portland. No, honey, not Portland, but Pow-rt-land, with your head swelled and your belly stuck out. It's all rush and go out here, but just like everywhere else, the man that's got it coined his brain and energy for it. The farms, mines, orchards, vineyards, all the places that look the best and are the best have had the most work done on them. But there's hope and intoxication in the sunshine, there's certainty to the season—you know exactly what tomorrow or next week or next month will be like. You can have a rain any time if you live on irrigated land, and yesterday is soon forgotten in the bright hope of tomorrow, and even the man of yesterday is ancient history. I have never yet so far heard of but one man who ever made a failure out here, and that was down in Los Angeles, where they showed me a beautiful park given to the city by a wealthy man who subsequently met reverses of fortune and they let him die in the poor house, a pauper, and I came along twenty or fifteen or ten years after and do you know not a damn man in the city could tell me his name. But the park is there all the same, all sweet and cool and restful, right in the heart of the beautiful, restless, surging city, and I stood in the shade of his beautiful trees and took off my hat to the memory of the only man who ever came to the Pacific slope and didn't get rich, stay rich and die rich.

The Vaudet has a program tonight which promises something out of the ordinary. The Imp drama, "An Imaginary Elopement," is said to be very fine and deals with a unique story. The other picture is a Yankee drama, "The Taxicab Mystery." The picture is full of mystery and is very novel. A new song will be sung.

The Portola will feature a Pathe film entitled "A Close Call" Friday and Saturday nights. The picture is a thrilling railroad drama and shows the rescue of a girl from the front end of an engine. Tonight a Biograph drama, "The White Rose of the Wild" will be the first subject. The other film is a Melies "Her Spoiled Boy." It is a drama and is said to be very fine. The Biograph pictures need no introduction as they are always favorites in this city.

CHAPTER XII.

A few days later there happened a little incident so inexplicable and irritating in its character that it caused me considerable annoyance and thought. It was one of those peculiar occurrences that one does not care anything about in itself, yet which exasperates him because of his inability to explain it. It so happened that I desired to wear a certain suit of clothes which I had purchased a short while before, and with that purpose before me went into the closet where I kept my spare apparel hanging in order to get it out. I could not find it. Growing more and more impatient as I searched among my things I at last removed all that the closet contained, article by article, and laid them on the bed. The suit that I was looking for was certainly missing.

I sat down and thought. I remembered distinctly the last time I had worn it, and had an equally clear recollection of replacing it in its accustomed place at the end of the day. I was positive that I had not touched it since that time and its absence now, as far as I was able to reason, could only be explained on the theory of theft. I went downstairs to Mrs. Tebbets to question her about it, and happening to recall that she had expressed her admiration of it upon seeing it upon me for the first time, I now described it to her as the suit which I had worn on Derby day. She answered me very promptly:

"Why, yes. That is the one you sent me word about yesterday. I let the man have it as you told me to in the note."

I looked at her in mystification, knowing that I had sent her no note and being at a loss to grasp her meaning. "What note—what man?" I demanded. She stood rubbing her damp hands with a towel and seemingly a little impatient at my stupidity.

"The note on your card which you sent me only yesterday saying that I was to give it to the tailor," she retorted. I could only repeat somewhat more emphatically that I had done no such thing.

She threw down her towel with a sniff and began rummaging about among the odds and ends of a shelf. Presently she picked up a small piece of cardboard, which she handed me with an expression of triumph. "Very well. Just read it for yourself then. If that is not your card and writing I cannot trust my eyes, and if I cannot trust my eyes the Lord knows what I can trust. And that is all I have got to say about that." I seized the piece of paper and glanced at it. It was certainly either one of my cards or a perfect imitation, and having satisfied myself on that point I turned it over and saw written on the back a few lines, which while certainly bearing a strong resemblance to my chirography when I scribble in a hurry, were as certainly not mine. They read: "Mrs. Tebbets: Please to deliver to the bearer, who is in the employ of my tailor, the suit of clothes I wore on Derby day that he may press the same. Thomas Halliday."

"It is a plain, unmitigated, unadulterated Forgery."

For a moment I was too surprised to do more than turn it over in mute incredulity. Then I turned upon her sharply.

"What kind of a looking man brought this?"

"He was short and fat. I guess he was about as old as you are. I thought at the time that he looked funny in the eyes, but I did not let him in the house and did not pay much attention to him. I am always careful about admitting strangers, you know. It is all right, isn't it?"

"No, there isn't anything right about it. It is a plain, unmitigated, unadulterated forgery. Did he say anything more to you?" Her chin dropped.

"Well, of all things! To think of forming and negative pursing of his mouth. Then he held it forth. "Nothing at all. What is there about it?" I took the card from him and replaced it carefully in my pocket as I made my reply.

"Only this—that it is a forgery. And while I did not for a moment think that you had any information about it, I went to the pains of coming here to ask you. Neither do I suppose you know anything concerning the whereabouts of the clothes mentioned." His answer furnished me the second surprise of the day.

"Oh, yes, I do. The suit is here all right. It was brought in yesterday by a strange man who said you wished me to press it for you. I have done so and it is now in perfect condition." I looked at him with the incredulity with which one faces a person who makes an incredible statement with a straight face and under the guise of seriousness.

"Let me see the suit," I ordered.

He did so, and I inspected it critically. I could discover nothing amiss with it externally, and searching the pockets found they were empty. However, that was to be expected, as I could remember having nothing in them when I had hung it away, certainly nothing of any value to anybody but myself. I had only succeeded in thickening the mystery which enveloped this extraordinary transaction, and puzzled beyond expression, I arranged with the tailor that in the future he should allow none of my clothes which he happened to have in his possession to leave his hands upon an order ostensibly written by me unless the order contained a secret mark which we then and there agreed upon. Then instructing him that if any one called for the suit in question and presented an order for the same not bearing the minute token of its genuineness which we had just invented, that he was to detain him until he could summon an officer and have him arrested, I departed. What possible object any person could have had in wishing to secure possession of a suit of my clothes which contained nothing of the slightest worth, and who having secured possession of it should go to the trouble of conveying it from my house to the tailor shop was utterly beyond my comprehension. The forger had not injured the clothes, as some petty-minded enemy might have done out of a spirit of spite, and altogether I could conceive of no possible benefit or satisfaction any one could have derived from such an elaborate and criminal subterfuge. Utterly baffled, I determined to say nothing more about it for the time, quietly awaiting any new developments that might arise.

The next morning another strange thing had happened. I was dressing for the day at my customary hour for arising when suddenly the house-keeper's knuckles fell upon the door in a series of nervous taps. She almost never came to the upper floor before the breakfast hour, and I therefore searched her face with some curiosity as I told her that she might enter. She immediately burst forth in an excited volley.

"Oh, Mr. Tom! The house has been burglarized again in the night. What on earth are we coming to with such people prowling all around in the darkness? I never was so frightened in my life. I declare I nearly fell in a faint when I discovered it. Please come with me and I will show you." Dumfoundedly, and with my necktie still dangling from my hand, I followed her squat figure as she climbed down the front stairs, waddled through the dining room and kitchen and then one foot at a time descended the steep stairs that led to the basement. There was only one door entering from the outside into these lower regions and that was never used—in fact, had been bolted ever since my occupancy of the premises. The aperture in the side of the house through which the coal supply was dumped from the drive into the bin was protected by an iron grating which was always carefully locked after such an operation, and the low windows which admitted light to the furnace room had fixed iron bars on the outside. The police, LeDuc and myself had gone over this region thoroughly in our search and had found that the locks had not been tampered with nor the gratings disturbed; the dust and the rust had proven that beyond contention. Now to my amazement I saw that the door had been forced by some powerful instrument that had torn the receiving socket for the bolt bodily from its fastenings. My hair arose with a cold tingling of my scalp, much as it might have done had I been suddenly confronted by some uncanny object in the dead of night.

"And the door at the head of the stairs which leads from here into the kitchen, was that disturbed?" I asked her as my first sensations faded. She was panting from excitement and the haste of her movements.

"No, the door was locked and just as I left it last night with the key still on the inside. He could not have gone up higher than the head of the basement stair. I just happened to remember that I had left a broom down here yesterday, and when I came down after it I noticed this door right away. Who on earth do you suppose could have done it?" She was wringing her hands weakly, the perspiration of nervousness popping from her forehead.

SECRETARY WILSON SUFFERS THE BRUNT

The Wiley Case Giving Him No End of Worry.

Washington, July 20.—Uncle Jim Wilson, secretary of agriculture, is more worried over the Wiley case than he has ever been before from any official problem cropping out of his department. Secretary Wilson in fact seems to be in a more embarrassing situation than Dr. Wiley himself. Dr. Wiley knows he is not going to lose his job, and Secretary Wilson also knows it. Nevertheless Secretary Wilson has been called upon by President Taft to make a recommendation in writing as to whether or not Dr. Wiley ought to go.

It is reported that Wiley in the defense which he has filed with Secretary Wilson emphatically declines to acknowledge guilt in even a technical violation of the appropriation law. It is intimated that Dr. Wiley, if he is to be publicly reprimanded, will insist that the responsibility rest on persons who have established the precedent under which he acted in the Rusby case. Mr. Taft's friends, however, do not doubt that he will speak sharply to the point in addressing Dr. Wiley, and that he will give the pure food specialist clearly to understand that the affairs of his bureau in the future are to be run in harmony with the policy and under general directions of his superior officers.

Void as to the C. P. & St. S. Springfield, Ill., July 20.—The Illinois 2-cent law was declared unconstitutional and void as far as it relates to the Chicago, Peoria & St. Louis railroad, by Master in Chancery Allen of the southern district of the United States court here.

Housebreaker Slain. Rock Island, Ill., July 20.—George Rinkston, a negro, said to be from St. Paul, Minn., was shot dead here by Andrew Dimolakis. It is said he was attempting to enter Dimolakis's residence at the time he was killed.

HAS NO DESIGNS ON ISLE OF CUBA

This Government Makes a Formal Announcement.

SET CUBANS' FEARS AT REST

President Taft Has Instructed the State Department to Make Very Clear to the Cuban People That Stimson's Visit to Havana Has Nothing to Do With Political Designs on the Island.

Washington, July 20.—Announcing to Cuba and the world that this government has no designs whatever on Cuba, President Taft, who came out last fall with a strong statement denying reports that the American government was looking to the establishment of a protectorate or some other form of control in Panama, has made a denial of reports that the approaching visit to Havana of Secretary of War Stimson, General Wood, chief of staff of the army; Judge Advocate General Crowder, and General Edwards, chief of the insular bureau, was being made for political purposes, looking to another intervention in the island on account of an alleged threatening situation growing out of the approaching presidential campaign. Secretary Knox, after discussing the subject with the president, was directed to cable a statement to Minister Jackson at Havana, to be made public there, in order to set at rest the suspicions of the Cuban people. It was said that the visit of the officials is being made merely to view the remains of the old battleship Maine, now being raised in Havana harbor.

Aside from the officials of his party, Secretary Stimson will be accompanied to Havana by Thomas C. Dawson, returning special ambassador to the centennial celebration in Venezuela. Mr. Dawson is now at Cristobal on the armored cruiser North Carolina, on which Secretary Stimson and his party will make the return. The party will sail from Cristobal to Ponce, Porto Rico, for an inspection of the island. From there they will go to Santo Domingo to look into the work of rehabilitating the finances of that country under the guidance of the United States. From there they will go to Havana, arriving the first week in August. They will arrive at Hampton Roads about a week later.

STALLED ON TRACK

Four Women Killed When Fast Train Crashed Into Auto.

Oranville, N. Y., July 20.—With their bodies horribly mangled, four prominent Saratoga women lie in undertaking rooms in this city, the result of an auto accident at Raceville a few miles east of here. The dead are Mrs. Elizabeth Grant, widow of Dr. Grant, of Saratoga; Mrs. Charles Wells, jr., wife of the son of a prominent druggist of Saratoga; Mrs. George W. Yates and Mrs. Robinson of Boston, a guest of Mrs. Wells. The chauffeur, Charles A. Ostrander, is alive, but with small chance of recovery.

The party was hit by an express train at a grade crossing. The chauffeur says that the engine of his machine was stalled while he was shifting from high to low speed, the crossing being at the top of a steep hill. The auto belonged to Mrs. Grant and the others were her guests for the day.

An Incident of Housecleaning.
Lawrenceburg, Ind., July 20.—Mrs. Jacob Ott, aged forty-one, living on a farm in Kelso township, was cleaning her house and burned up some old bed ticking and unknowingly consigned to the flames a roll of paper money containing $87 and a gold watch which her husband had stored away for safe-keeping.

Sleep Walker Falls to Death.
Indianapolis, July 20.—James L. Blake, thirty-five years old, is dead from injuries received when he fell from a third story window at 445 West Washington street. Blake was a sleep walker, and it is thought that he walked out of the window while asleep.

John W. Gates's condition, compared with what it was a week ago, has distinctly improved.

W. B. THOMAS.

President of the Sugar Trust.

SUGAR TRUST HEAD

HAD NO SUGGESTION

Could See No Way to Avert Probable Monopoly.

New York, July 20.—A member of the committee that is looking into the American Sugar company gave to Washington R. Thomas, chairman of the board of directors, an opinion that the trust has at hand the machinery and the resources to grow in power until its control is absolute, and he expressed his opinion of the tremendous responsibility that rests on the government in fixing the relations between the company and the people. It is to make recommendations to congress on the Sherman anti-trust law that the committee was appointed.

Mr. Thomas could not suggest any way in which the deleterious use of this power could be averted. He said that whether it would be harmful or not depended largely upon the character of the men in whose hands such control rested.

WHAT MINERS WANT

Men in Anthracite Field Formulate New Demands.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., July 20.—Resolutions embodying demands that the mine workers desire to make upon the anthracite operators were presented to the convention of the anthracite mine workers and referred to a resolution committee.

They include demands for the recognition of the union, the use of the check-off system by the coal companies in collecting the union dues, the weighing of coal and payment by weight instead of the size of the car as at present, standard price for powder used by the mine workers; and an increase in wages for all classes of workers ranging from 10 to 20 per cent.

Hints of Big Naval Scandal.

San Francisco, July 20.—It has leaked out that extensive frauds have been perpetrated in naval storehouses at Mare Island which will run up into thousands of dollars. Stores have been stolen by the wholesale through collusion between employees in the storehouses and merchants in Vallejo, it is said, but so cleverly has this been carried on that only recently have auditors had any suspicion that everything was not right.

ACTIONS SPEAK.

It is better to say "This one thing I do" than to say "These forty things I dabble in."—Washington Gladden.

A man's action is only the picture book of his creed.—Emerson.

Every duty we omit obscures some truth we should have known.—Ruskin.

They should be first among all who contribute most to the good of all.—Mazzini.

Fear not that thy life shall come to an end, but rather fear that it shall never have a beginning.—Cardinal Newman.

WORK AND THOUGHT.

We want one man to be always thinking and another to be always working, and we call the one a gentleman and the other an operative, whereas the workman ought often to be thinking and the thinker often to be working, and both should be gentlemen in the best sense.—Ruskin.

LAKE COUNTY'S NOTABLE GAIN

Interesting Figures Received By Board of Review.

BEATS ALL OTHER COUNTIES

Appraisal of Real Estate and Improvements Since 1907 Appraisal Shows an Increase of 32.6 Per Cent, About Ten Points More Than the Increase Noted in Any Other County.

Indianapolis, July 20.—In the appraisal of real estate and improvements since the corresponding appraisal was made in 1907, returns from the board of review of Lake county, received by the state board of tax commissioners, show that county to have made an increase of 32.6 per cent. This is about ten points more than the increase by any other county thus far reported, and is held to be due to the extensive improvements in the county in the last four years and to the great increase in land values. The average appraisal of land and improvements was $79.30, more than $25 more than the average in any other county thus far reported.

Assessing officials of White county protested against any increase by the state board over the appraisal by the county board. The farmers of the county, they said, are carrying a total of $600,000 assessment for ditch purposes, and cannot stand a higher assessment than the county board gave them.

More than a dozen counties thus far have failed to have representatives before the board in answer to the notice sent out. In the event these counties do not respond, the board will make such changes as the members may see fit, using the real estate abstracts filed with the auditor of state as basis for their action.

WILL TAKE HER HOME

Woman's Sentence Suspended, Husband Assuming Responsibility.

Muncie, Ind., July 20.—Mrs. Lydia Minch, James Snyder and Bert Coffinbarger, who are alleged to have played a "badger game" on Francis Quinn, aged seventy-two, of near Dunkirk, were convicted in circuit court on petit larceny charges and all sentenced to state's prison. The woman's sentence was suspended on a plea for mercy in her behalf made by her husband, who came here from Springfield, O., for the purpose, and who said that if she were permitted to go with him he would take her back into their home.

PRISON REFORMED HIM

First Act of Paroled Prisoner Was to Beg Victim's Pardon.

South Bend, Ind., July 20.—With tears in his eyes, Carl Tracas, who attempted to murder Harry E. Jennings, sergeant of police, several years ago, sought the policeman and implored his pardon for the crime. He had just returned from the state reformatory at Jeffersonville, from which he was recently paroled, and he told the policeman he would be a happy man if he were pardoned by the man he tried to kill, as life in the prison had reformed him.

She Evaded the Nurse.

Logansport, Ind., July 20.—Mrs. Alice Hartman, aged twenty-eight, wife of Pearl Hartman, a Vandalla fireman, arose from a sick bed, evaded a nurse and ran two blocks to Eel river, where she threw herself into the water and was drowned. Mrs. Hartman was about to become a mother.

Indiana Apple Show.

Indianapolis, July 20.—A committee has been named by the Commercial club to assist in the promotion of the Indiana apple show, which will be held the week of Nov. 6. The committee will undertake to interest the other business organizations of the city in the exposition.

Couldn't Give Bail.

Evansville, Ind., July 20.—Albert Ellis of St. Louis, who is charged with selling oleomargarine in that city and who was arrested here, was arraigned before United States Commissioner J. W. Wartmann and his bond was fixed at $500, which he was unable to give.

A Boy and a Gun.

Plainfield, Ind., July 20.—Therel Lawson, the twelve-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Lawson, accidentally shot himself while playing with a 32-caliber revolver, the bullet entering the left leg and breaking the bone four inches above the knee.

Is the Wabash Navigable?

Terre Haute, Ind., July 20.—A survey of the Wabash river from this city to its mouth is being made by thirty government engineers, who will determine whether the Wabash river will be made navigable.

Death Due to a Corn.

Shelbyville, Ind., July 20.—Blood poisoning, the result of trimming her corn, caused the death of Mrs. Katharine Coers, aged sixty, wife of Fred W. Coers of Liberty township.

hundred and twenty-five pounds a day and already a total of three thousand pounds has been mixed with gravel and converted into strong walls. It is estimated that about that much more will be used. The cement walls are re-enforced with steel bars in such a manner that it seems that a force could not be found would shake them. Steel bars are embedded in a horizontal direction and bent around each corner and steel bars are run through the cement walls connecting the first and second floors. In that manner two are practically clamped together so that it would require a terrific force to shake them from their position. The two floors are additionally strengthened and tied by large rocks being imbedded a few inches apart in the top of the wall of the first story and extending into the wall of the second story.

The building will be two stories high and will stand about thirty feet in the air. The second floor is held up by solid posts a foot square on a solid cement foundation at intervals over the first floor. The cement posts were used because they were as cheap as wood and at the same time there is no danger of them rotting away at the bottom, breaking off and endangering the lives of the workmen in the building. The main wing of the structure is east and west with wings projecting northward at either end.

The whole west wing will have a perfectly smooth cement floor and will be used for the oil room and the first coat. No floor will be built in the west end of the main wing. All of the rest of the floors will be of wood. After the usual flooring has been put down then the whole floor space will be covered with 1 1/4 inch maple. There will be an exception to this in the second floor of the west wing, where the machine room will be located. Here a flooring of three-inch soft pine has already been laid and the maple will be put on top of that. It is estimated that there will be more than sixty thousand square feet of floor space in the building. All of the floors will be painted with fireproof paint so that they will be as near inflammable as possible.

The famous Fenestra steel window frame is being used in all of the windows which are liberally cut all over the building. The light and ventilation in the building will be excellent for the sidewalls are cut with windows only a few feet apart. The windows will have small panes and only a section of each one may be opened. The steel frames are imbedded in cement walls and a cement expert will be brought here to even up the work and smooth off the rough edges. The expert will also put in the cement floor in the west wing.

Heavy sliding iron doors will be used in shutting off one room from another which is in keeping with the fireproof policy. The roof will be of asbestos and an asphalt mixture which will be fastened on with a guaranteed never-leak cleat.

A force of fifty men are at work on the building. The cement and gravel is raised to the second floor by means of a small car on a track which is pulled by a horse. A sixty-nine foot well has been dug near the factory and a small gasoline engine pumps all of the water needed in the work.
